

The sun goes down.
Yom Kippur begins.

It is called the Day of Atonement. Atonement means saying sorry.

Families pray together.
We think about being kind.

Grown-ups do not eat or drink for 25 hours.

In Israel, the streets are quiet. No shopping. No TV.

We say, "I am sorry."
We forgive.

When the sun sets again,
the fast ends.
The shofar blows.

Yom Kippur is a day of hope and new beginnings.
